It's not surprising that, when you're designing a home for two renowned chefs, the kitchen would be the focal point. Along with a built-in, 300-bottle wine room, a full butler's pantry and a 16' x 5' island for preparation and entertaining, a cutting-edge five-foot designer stove was imported from the village of Lacanche in the Cote d'or Region of Burgundy, France. To further enhance the entertainment potential of this cedar, copper and brick-exterior abode, all audio and video components were fully integrated (along with security systems) into a "smart home" data system.
